40. Mary Ann Oliver[5] BUCKRIDGE (adopted) (1786) (Thomas[4], John[3], Christopher[2]Buckeridge, James[1]); born 12 Mar 1821 at London, Middlesex, Eng;[245] baptized 26 Dec 1824 at St. Giles Cripplegate, London, Middlesex, Eng ("e");[246] died 3 Jul 1897 at Brooklyn, Kings, NY, at age 76. Adopted by Thomas Christopher Buckridge, she was the natural child of either a sister of Thomas' or his wife Eliza.[247] She married at Brooklyn, Kings, NY, ____ LEONARD[248] (1968) , who died at Brooklyn, Kings, NY. The NY 1850 Census showed a Mary A. Leonard, age 29, a vagrant of Blackwell's Island. Although the date is appropriate, this is probably not the same person as family lore recalls her as a beloved family member. A letter dated 28 apr 1864 from Margaret Buckridge , wife of John Ninde Buckridge, to her mother Elizabeth Abel Buckridge, gave Mary's residence as Philadelphia PA. A second letter dated 11 May 1864 reported that John Buckridge had had a letter from his sister Mary, who had sent him five dollars while he was recuperating from a Civil War injury, "so you see she has not forgot him yet she has always been A friend to him and always will be one as long as she lives I expect she will be out here [Washington DC] soon to see him."[249]

7 41. John Nind[5] BUCKRIDGE (1789) (Thomas[4], John[3], Christopher[2]Buckeridge, James[1]); born 12 Jun 1833 at New York, NY;[251] died 23 Jan 1912 at Westbrook, Middlesex, CT, at age 78 of cerebral hemorrhage, nephritis and apoplexy;[252] buried at Cypress Cemetery, Westbrook, Middlesex, CT, with a GAR [Grand Army of the Republic] funeral service. He married at Methodist Episcopal Church, 43rd Street, New York, NY, 24 Dec 1860 Margaret Ann Abel (1974), daughter of Thomas Abel (1975) and Elizabeth (Sinclair) Chambers (1976).[253] Margaret Ann ABEL (1974) was born on 15 Oct 1837 at New York, NY.[254] She died on 15 Feb 1920 at 38 Bishop Street, New Haven, New Haven, CT, at age 82 of pneumonia, chronic bronchitis and influenza, age 82. She was buried at Cypress Cemetery, Westbrook, Middlesex, CT.[255] Although the NY 1850 Census stated that John was in the Navy at age 17, other records indicate that he enlisted at No. 9 Cherry Street, New York in 1851 as a "landsman" and sailed aboard the North Carolina in the first part of 1852, later transferring at the Brooklyn Navy Yard to the store ship Supply under the command of Lieutenant Commander Arthur St. Clair, attendant to Commodore Perry's expedition to the China Sea and Japan. The supply ship was the first ship to leave China for Japan, where the Treaty of Friendliness was signed on 31 Mar 1854. Volunteers from the store ship, John Nind Buckridge, S. William Hardy [alias Nash] and William H. Young, were the first three Americans to sleep in Japan after the signing of the treaty. He was discharged on 17 Feb as an ordinary seaman.[256] He enlisted for the Paraguay Expedition to go up the LaPlatte River, sailing 2 Jan 1856 on the U.S. Frigate St. Lawrence from Norfolk VA with Lieutenant Commander Joseph B. Hull of Old Saybrook CT. He arrived in Philadelphia PA on 21 May 1859 and was discharged as an able seaman. In 1860, he was employed as a clerk. Enlisting from West Farms [now The Bronx], Westchester county, NY as a private, John was mustered into the 135th Regt., NY Volunteers, 6th NY Heavy Artillery on 19 Aug 1862 under the command of Captain Kibbe. He was injured on 28 Mar 1864 while on a wood-cutting detail at Brandy Station near Rappahannock, VA and was taken to the Armory Square Hospital in Washington, D.C. Here, his right leg was amputated at the thigh because of an erysipelatous inflammation. Described as five feet, five inches tall of florid complexion with blue eyes and brown hair, he was discharged on 20 Jul 1865.[257] While Margaret was caring for her husband at the Washington Hospital, she met a woman who had journeyed from Wisconsin to see President Lincoln to intercede for the life of her only son, who had been condemned to be shot for some slight misdemeanor. The heartbroken woman asked Margaret to accompany her to the White House. Doubtful of their ability to obtain an audience with the President, Margaret nevertheless agreed to go with her, and after much difficulty, they did succeed in meeting with President Lincoln. The mother said that the boy had run away from home and joined the army when only sixteen years of age, and she related that she had sold her feather beds and other articles to finance her trip to Washington to intercede for her son. The President, swayed by her tale, agreed to take her to the office of the Secretary of War to see what could be done. Later, the mother returned to the Hospital to say that President Lincoln had pardoned her son and given her $25.00 toward the return trip to Wisconsin for the woman and her son. As this was an insufficient amount, the wounded soldiers in the hospital took up a collection and contributed another $100.00. The hat and shawl that Mrs. Buckridge wore have been contributed to the Westbrook Connecticut Historical Society.[258] Margaret was a charter member and past-president of the Women's Relief Corps and her two unmarried daughters were also active in the association. For some years after the Civil War John ran a food market on Main Street near the Dutch Reformed Church in West Farms, NY.[259] He had purchased the market on 12 Jul 1869 from John Butler [260] and sold it on 11 Mar 1877 to John Adams Jr. for $350. He then began his 25 year career as a lighthouse keeper (with a wooden leg!) at a starting annual salary of $450.00. He served in the following lighthouses, his last assignment lasting over 19 years:

While he was at the Stepping Stones Lighthouse, which was not a family station, Margaret's address was 513 West 498r.[261] In 1880, his address was listed as Suffolk, City Brookhaven, Town Port Jefferson, L.I. John was a member of the American Mechanic Lodge (OUAM) in West Farms, the International Order of Odd Fellows (IOOF) in West Farms and Chapman Post #72, GAR in Westbrook.[262] He purchased a home on Seaside Avenue in Westbrook CT from Mrs. H. M. Stannard (Mary T.) in 1886, to which he retired from the Old Saybrook Inner Lighthouse in 1902. Gradual loss of the use of his remaining leg eventually confined him to an "invalid chair".The homestead is now owned by his grand-daughter Margaret Bock [compiler of this genealogy] and her husband Robert who purchased it from the Essex Savings Bank after the death of John's daughter Martha.[263] In 1900, John, lighthouse keeper, was shown with wife Margaret and children Eliza, Tom and Martha at home.[264] His will, written 24 Nov 1897, named his wife Margaret Ann as executrix and bequeathed all property to her. At her death it was to be distributed in equal shares to the children or their[265]

relicts was contributed to the Westbrook Library by his children before 1914.[395] They lived on South Main Street in Westbrook on former Kelsey family land, which touched corners with her parents' land on Seaside Avenue. Iin 1900, Ezra was listed as a sea-captain, born Aug 1850, with wife and two children.[396]

Children of Minnie[6] Buckridge (1979) and Ezra Lee Kelsey (2123) both born at Westbrook, Middlesex, CT, were:[397]

7 63. Thomas Abel[6] BUCKRIDGE (1981) (John[5], Thomas[4], John[3], Christopher[2]Buckeridge, James[1]); born 21 Jan 1874 at West Farms, Westchester, NY;[398] died 1 Aug 1955 at Hartford Hospital, Hartford, Hartford, CT, at age 81 from hypertensive arteriosclerotic heart disease with congestive heart failure, pulmonary edema, bronchopneumonia, acute pyelonephritis with lithiasis of the right kidney and diverticulosis; buried at Cypress Cemetery, Westbrook, Middlesex, CT, near his sister Minnie;[399] married at at the home of Sarah's mother on Collins Lane, Essex by the Methodist minister, 28 Mar 1901 Sarah Jeanette Tucker (2128), daughter of Hosmer Tucker (2129) and Mary Ann Royce (2130).[400] Sarah Jeanette TUCKER (2128) was born on 23 Apr 1876 at Essex, Middlesex, CT and died on 4 Aug 1962 at Highland Hall Manor, Essex, Middlesex, CT, at age 86 from cerebral vascular accident, bronchopneumonia, carcinoma with secondary metastasis, nephritis and cystitis;[401] buried at Cypress Cemetery, Westbrook, Middlesex, CT. Tom was fairly well educated for the times, having had one year of high school and one year at Connecticut Business College. In 1893, he worked at the Dickinson Witch Hazel Company, Essex; in 1900, still single and called a painter, he lived with his parents at the Lynde Point Lighthouse in Old Saybrook. During this time he was also an unpaid assistant to his handicapped and aging father.[402] After their marriage they lived in New York City at 221 West 16th Street, returning about 1902 to Essex, where they built a home on Collins Lane next to "Sadie"'s mother on land originally part of her grandfather Orson Tucker's estate. In 1904, Tom was employed by Comstock and Cheney Company; he also worked as a boat builder for Frank Harrison for seven years. Later, called "Captain", he continued to be a factory worker in Essex in the winter and for twelve years in the summer a commercial fisherman at Montauk NY with his boat, the Jacky. Here, the family lived on the "beach", as the fishing village was called, in a crude home constructed from fish packing crates and built on communal land owned by the railroad or possibly by "Jake" Wells who bought the fish and shipped them to New York City. This picturesque fishing village was inundated during the 1938 hurricane and the land was taken over by the government during World War II for security purposes.[403] Eventually, Tom followed the family tradition of lighthouse keeping, entering the service on 4 May 1922 and tending lights as Execution Rock near New Rochelle NY; Race Rock located off Fishers' Island from 16 Nov 1923; Montauk Point NY Lighthouse from 1 Jan 1930; Old Saybrook CT Outer Light on 4 Feb 1942, from which he retired on 31 Jan 1944, his last day of duty 24 Nov 1943. These were not easy days for Sarah as Montauk was the only station with family quarters. During Tom's duties at the other light stations Sarah lived at the family home in Essex, seeing her husband only a few days a month. Although the Lighthouse service was originally under the Department of Treasury, it was taken over by the Coast Guard during World War II, but Tom's last years of service under the Coast Guard were as a civilian because of his age.[404]

Children of Thomas Abel[6] Buckridge (1981) and Sarah Jeanette Tucker (2128) were:[405]

92. i. John Orson[7] BUCKRIDGE (2131), born 13 Dec 1901 at New York, NY; married Eda Catherine Dengler (2271).
93. ii. Thomas Irwin BUCKRIDGE (2132), born 9 Jan 1907 at Essex, Middlesex, CT; married Leah Adeline Doane (2276).
94. iii. Elizabeth BUCKRIDGE (2133), born 22 Jun 1913 at Essex, Middlesex, CT; married Albert Crawford Santi (2282).
95. iv. Margaret Mary BUCKRIDGE (2134), born 24 Sep 1919 at Essex, Middlesex, CT; married Robert William Bock (2287).
