SEATTLE DISTRICT MAY 10 U. S. COAST GUARD

From: CAMERON, Archie G.- Asst Keeper,
Alki Point Light Station.
To : COMMANDANT, Washington, D.C.
Via : Commander, Seattle District.
Subject : Induction into Coast Guard.
Reference: Form letter dated 19 April, 1941, with Seattle indorsement dated 6 May, 1941.

1. It is respectfully requested that the enlistment tendered me as coxswain in reference be changed to boatswain's mate 2nd class.

2. It is understood that Coast Guard ratings offered lighthouse keepers are based on their present salary, which in my case would not ordinarily entitle me to a 2nd Class Petty Officer rating. However, my record during eleven years in the Lighthouse Service and previous sea service in the U.S.Navy and on commercial vessels, I believe, entitles me to the extra benefits of the higher rating, viz, boatswain's mate 2nd class.

3. The fact that my salary is lower than many assistant keepers should not be considered to my discredit as many stations in this district have different scales of pay and it is often necessary to take a cut in pay when transfering to a more favorable locality. Alki Point, located within the city limits of Seattle is considered a choice station and the pay of assistant keepers here has always, I am informed, been the lowest.

I believe that I was offered this station on account of my good record and the recommendation of keepers under whom I had served. I accepted, being willing to take the reduction in pay to secure the advantages of school facilities for my young children.

4. My sea service includes the following:
U.S.Navy -April 8, 1917 to July 27, 1920, deck dept.
Ocean-going vessels, deck & engine depts.-6 years.
Tug boats onwaters of Puget Sound, deck & engine depts., 9 years, 6 of which was master of vessels up to 125 tons.
I hold license as 2nd class pilot of Puget Sound & adjacent waters and as mate of 500 tons.

Archie G. Cameron

Mr. Cameron is an exceptionally able man, fully qualified and justly entitled to favorable action upon his request.

SUMMARY OF CASE HISTORY

This patient, a 59 year old Coast Guardsman, was recently brought up for a 25-year retirement. At the time of his physical examination to terminate his service with the Coast Guard, it was thought that a Board of Medical Survey was necessary. He was first known to this hospital as regards his present trouble in September 1951 when he was admitted because of an illness of approximately two weeks' duration characterized by attacks of vertigo. During that time he had a sensation of progressive difficulty in retaining his balance and his wife noted that he walked a little differently than normal. There was some questionable tinnitus on the right side. On examination the blood pressure was 110/70. A minimal ptosis was present in the left eye. Bilateral mild arteriosclerotic fundal changes were noted. There was a grade I precordial murmur with reduplication of the second mitral sound. The cranial nerves, spinal thalamic and cerebellar function appeared intact. Superficial abdominal reflexes were bilaterally present and equal. The deep tendon reflexes were bilaterally present, equal and hyperactive, apparently on a functional basis, with the exception of an absent right ankle jerk. There was a positive Romberg, the falling being posteriorly to the right. There was no clonus, loss of muscle power or muscle substance. Patient was noted to present a widened base on walking and to have genuine difficulty, though minimal, in maintaining his balance. Routine laboratory studies were normal. Spinal fluid protein was reported as 53 mg.%. Electroencephalogram was within normal limits. The consulting neurologist felt that the man had suffered from a small cerebral thrombosis. During his hospitalization his difficulty in walking, as well as vertigo, disappeared and he was discharged on October 22, 1951, fit for duty.

At the present time he complains of occasional vertigo and difficulty in getting around in the dark. There has been increasing fatigue, episodes of paroxysmal dyspnea, not especially related to effort and definite shortness of breath on anything more than just mild exertion. He states that because of the attacks of vertigo and the shortness of breath, he is unable to perform the duties allotted to him. He has had no ankle swelling and no angina pectoris. He does notice that he tends to black out momentarily if he strains himself severely, such as in heavy lifting or straining at the stool.

Past History: Ulcers in 1935 for which he was treated by a sippy regime. He also had an episode of hematemesis and melena in 1936. No symptoms since 1937. He had suffered mild pain in the right shoulder and tingling in the right hand since 1949. During his last hospitalisation here, mild arthritic changes were demonstrated in the cervical spine. He complains of burning of his feet for about 10-15 years, especially when he lies down and elevates them. He notes that the covers particularly irritate his feet.

SUMMARY OF CASE HISTORY

This patient, a 59 year old Coast Guardsman, was recently brought up for a 25-year retirement. At the time of his physical examination to terminate his service with the Coast Guard, it was thought that a Board of Medical Survey was necessary. He was first known to this hospital as regards his present trouble in September 1951 when he was admitted because of an illness of approximately two weeks' duration characterized by attacks of vertigo. During that time he had a sensation of progressive difficulty in retaining his balance and his wife noted that he walked a little differently than normal. There was some questionable tinnitus on the right side. On examination the blood pressure was 110/70. A minimal ptosis was present in the left eye. Bilateral mild arteriosclerotic fundal changes were noted. There was a grade I precordial murmur with reduplication of the second mitral sound. The cranial nerves, spinal thalamic and cerebellar function appeared intact. Superficial abdominal reflexes were bilaterally present and equal. The deep tendon reflexes were bilaterally present, equal and hyperactive, apparently on a functional basis, with the exception of an absent right ankle jerk. There was a positive Romberg, the falling being posteriorly to the right. There was no clonus, loss of muscle power or muscle substance. Patient was noted to present a widened base on walking and to have genuine difficulty, though minimal, in maintaining his balance. Routine laboratory studies were normal. Spinal fluid protein was reported as 53 mg.%. Electroencephalogram was within normal limits. The consulting neurologist felt that the man had suffered from a small cerebral thrombosis. During his hospitalization his difficulty in walking, as well as vertigo, disappeared and he was discharged on October 22, 1951, fit for duty.

At the present time he complains of occasional vertigo and difficulty in getting around in the dark. There has been increasing fatigue, episodes of paroxysmal dyspnea, not related to effort and definite s[illegible] of breath on more than just mild exertion. He states that because of the attacks of vertigo and the shortness of breath, he is unable to perform the duties allotted to him. He has had no ankle swelling and no angina pectoris. He does notice that he tends to black out momentarily if he strains himself severely, such as in heavy lifting or straining at the stool.

Past History: Ulcers in 1935 for which he was treated by a sippy regime. He also had an episode of hematemesis and melena in 1936. No symptoms since 1937. He had suffered mild pain in the right shoulder and tingling in the right hand since 1949. During his last hospitalization here, mild arteritic changes were demonstrated in the cervical spine. He complains of burning of his feet for about 10-15 years, especially when he lies down and elevates them. He notes that the covers particularly irritate his feet.

SUMMARY OF CASE HISTORY

This patient, a 59 year old Coast Guardsman, was recently brought up for a 25-year retirement. At the time of his physical examination to terminate his service with the Coast Guard, it was thought that a Board of Medical Survey was necessary. He was first known to this hospital as regards his present trouble in September 1951 when he was admitted because of an illness of approximately two weeks' duration characterized by attacks of vertigo. During that time he had a sensation of progressive difficulty in retaining his balance and his wife noted that he walked a little differently than normal. There was some questionable tinnitus on the right side. On examination the blood pressure was 110/70. A minimal ptosis was present in the left eye. Bilateral mild arteriosclerotic fundal changes were noted. There was a grade I precordial murmur with reduplication of the second mitral sound. The cranial nerves, spinal thalamic and cerebellar function appeared intact. Superficial abdominal reflexes were bilaterally present and equal. The deep tendon reflexes were bilaterally present, equal and hyperactive, apparently on a functional basis, with the exception of an absent right ankle jerk. There was a positive Romberg, the falling being posteriorly to the right. There was no clonus, loss of muscle power or muscle substance. Patient was noted to present a widened base on walking and to have genuine difficulty, though minimal, in maintaining his balance. Routine laboratory studies were normal. Spinal fluid protein was reported as 53 mg.%. Electroencephalogram was within normal limits. The consulting neurologist felt that the man had suffered from a small cerebral thrombosis. During his hospitalization his difficulty in walking, as well as vertigo, disappeared and he was discharged on October 22, 1951, fit for duty.

At the present time he complains of occasional vertigo and difficulty in getting around in the dark. There has been increasing fatigue, episodes of paroxysmal dyspnea, not especially related to effort and definite shortness of breath on anything more than just mild exertion. He states that because of the attacks of vertigo and the shortness of breath, he is unable to perform the duties allotted to him. He has had no ankle swelling and no angina pectoris. He does notice that he tends to black out momentarily if he strains himself severely, such as in heavy lifting or straining at the stool.

Past History: Ulcers in 1935 for which he was treated by a sippy regime. He also had an episode of hematemesis and melena in 1936. No symptoms since 1937. He had suffered mild pain in the right shoulder and tingling in the right hand since 1949. During his last hospitalization here, mild arthritic changes were demonstrated in the cervical spine. He complains of burning of his feet for about 10-15 years, especially when he lies down and elevates them. He notes that the covers particularly irritate his feet.

Physical examination revealed a snow-white-haired, pleasant male in no acute distress. Blood pressure 130/80. Pulse 84. Temperature 98.8. Weight 160, average 165. Height 69 inches. Grade 2 retinopathy was described in both eyegrounds. The lungs were clear. A grade 1 systolic murmur at the apex was noted. No definite neurological findings could be found though there was some minimal difficulty with his balance but no positive Romberg. Speech was slow but not halting and not indistinct.

Chest film normal. Routine laboratory studies within normal limits. Liver profile, BUN were also reported as normal. Electrocardiogram was within normal limits.

During his hospitalization the patient received priscoline and reported some improvement in circulation to the feet with some decrease in the burning sensation. There were occasions when he had definite attacks of mild vertigo, on one occasion especially after manipulation of the left carotid artery for a brief period of time.

This man is thought to be unfit to perform his duties by virtue of the above diagnoses and it is, therefore, recommended that he be brought before a Board of Physical Evaluation for separation from the service.

SUMMARY OF CASE HISTORY

This patient, a 59 year old Coast Guardsman, was recently brought up for a 25-year retirement. At the time of his physical examination to terminate his service with the Coast Guard, it was thought that a Board of Medical Survey was necessary. He was first known to this hospital as regards his present trouble in September 1951 when he was admitted because of an illness of approximately two weeks' duration characterized by attacks of vertigo. During that time he had a sensation of progressive difficulty in retaining his balance and his wife noted that he walked a little differently than normal. There was some questionable tinnitus on the right side. On examination the blood pressure was 110/70. A minimal ptosis was present in the left eye. Bilateral mild arteriosclerotic fundal changes were noted. There was a grade I precordial murmur with reduplication of the second mitral sound. The cranial nerves, spinal thalamic and cerebellar function appeared intact. Superficial abdominal reflexes were bilaterally present and equal. The deep tendon reflexes were bilaterally present, equal and hyperactive, apparently on a functional basis, with the exception of an absent right ankle jerk. There was a positive Romberg, the falling being posteriorly to the right. There was no clonus, loss of muscle power or muscle substance. Patient was noted to present a widened base on walking and to have genuine difficulty, though minimal, in maintaining his balance. Routine laboratory studies were normal. Spinal fluid protein was reported as 53 mg.%. Electroencephalogram was within normal limits. The consulting neurologist felt that the man had suffered from a small cerebral thrombosis. During his hospitalization his difficulty in walking, as well as vertigo, disappeared and he was discharged on October 22, 1951, fit for duty.

At the present time he complains of occasional vertigo and difficulty in getting around in the dark. There has been increasing fatigue, episodes of paroxysmal dyspnea, not especially related to effort and definite shortness of breath on anything more than just mild exertion. He states that because of the attacks of vertigo and the shortness of breath, he is unable to perform the duties allotted to him. He has had no ankle swelling and no angina pectoris. He does notice that he tends to black out momentarily if he strains himself severely, such as in heavy lifting or straining at the stool.

Past History: Ulcers in 1935 for which he was treated by a sippy regime. He also had an episode of hematemesis and melena in 1936. No symptoms since 1937. He had suffered mild pain in the right shoulder and tingling in the right hand since 1949. During his last hospitalization here, mild arthritic changes were demonstrated in the cervical spine. He complains of burning of his feet for about 10-15 years, especially when he lies down and elevates them. He notes that the covers particularly irritate his feet.

Physical examination revealed a snow-white-haired, pleasant male in no acute distress. Blood pressure 130/80. Pulse 84. Temperature 98.8. Weight 160, average 165. Height 69 inches. Grade 2 retinopathy was described in both eyegrounds. The lungs were clear. A grade 1 systolic murmur at the apex was noted. No definite neurological findings could be found though there was some minimal difficulty with his balance but no positive Romberg. Speech was slow but not halting and not indistinct.

Chest film normal. Routine laboratory studies within normal limits. Liver profile, BUN were also reported as normal. Electrocardiogram was within normal limits.

During his hospitalization the patient received prisocoline and reported some improvement in circulation to the feet with some decrease in the burning sensation. There were occasions when he had definite attacks of mild vertigo, on one occasion especially after manipulation of the left carotid artery for a brief period of time.

This man is thought to be unfit to perform his duties by virtue of the above diagnoses and it is, therefore, recommended that he be brought before a Board of Physical Evaluation for separation from the service.
