Burial expenses
John F. Enquist.

October 9, 1911.

The Commissioner of Lighthouses,

Washington.

Sir.

Herewith is transmitted bill of $129.00, J. A. Gilbaugh & Co., covering the funeal expenses of John F. Enquist, late Keeper of Destruction Island Light Station, Washington, who was killed by the fall of the derrick at that station.

As this seems to be a case entirely covered by the last paragraph of page 103, Regulations for the United States Ligthouse Service, September 1, 1911, information is asked as to whether the amount of burial, etc. expenses is left to the discretion of the Inspector.

Respectfully,

Henry L. Beck

Inspector.

Payment authorized by letter to 17th Instr.
Oct. 16/11.

Department of Commerce and Labor

The Deputy Commissioner:

This bill apparently shows a weakness in the regulation of the Bureau which does not place a limit to the cost of, "a decent burial." It is not apparent why a box and express to cemetery, hearse and boat were all necessary to this man's burial.

Embalming, burial suit, gloves and funeral notices, are also questionable changes. A boat was probably for use of mourners which it does not appear reasonable to expect the Government to provide.

It appears to me that the following items only are proper charges for "a decent burial;"

Casket	$60.00 (?)
Hearse	5.00
Opening grave	5.00
Personal ~~Funeral~~ services	10.00 (instead of $15.00 for washing, dressing, shaving and embalming.)

and cover about all the expenses that the Government proposes to pay.

The Lighthouse Inspector,

Portland, Oregon.

Sir:

Herewith is returned to you a bill of J. A. Gilbaugh & Company, in the sum of $129, for the burial expenses of Mr. John F. Enquist, deceased keeper of Destruction Island Light-Station, Washington, which was forwarded to this office under cover of your letter dated October 9, 1911.

If the above-named account appears to you to be reasonable and in accordance with the regulations as printed on page 105 of the Regulations of the Lighthouse Service of September 1, 1911, you are authorized to pay it.

Respectfully,

Acting Commissioner.
