Dear Mr. Wilson:

I am enclosing a check for Seven and 10/100($7.10)Dollars,covering the C. O. D. paid by you on a package from Spalding & Co.

In the future,request that you refuse any such packages that are brought to the office C. O. D. as I am not in the habit of ordering things in this manner. I have accounts with any of the places that I order such articles from and if they can not forward me the goods that I order from them directly to me,I do not care to trade with them. I have established such accounts in order to eliminate such things as C. O. D.,as I realize that collection of same is an annoyance to you people there in the office.

Wish to thank you for your kindness in handeling these matters in the past,and will try to see that it does not occur again in the future.

Raymond Logan, First Assistant Keeper,
Farallon Island Light Station.

Through the Keeper:

1. The sum of $2.27 was paid on a C.O.D. package addressed to you by the American Radio Stores. Please remit check in reimbursement drawn to order of Superintendent of Lighthouses.

2. The Superintendent desires to follow the uniform practice throughout the District of forwarding personal accounts of this kind through the Keeper. It is not necessary to forward payment by return mail. Urgent matters requiring prompt action are generally marked "Urgent" on the envelop so that the Keeper may act promptly upon them by return mail. Other matters may be left over until the next Tender trip. It would undoubtedly handicap the Keeper in handling freight and supplies on Tender trips if all of the personal mail was distributed and ~~if~~ the Assistants left the Keeper to handle personal matters by return trip of the Tender.

SAN FRANCISCO

Supt. of Lighthouses
San Francisco, Calif.

Sir:

In accordance with instructions from the Keeper in which he has asked me to put into a detailed letter anything that I know corncerning the disappearence of the articles of which you have a description.

My wife received an urgent message calling her in last boat day and while making preperations for departure Thursday, she missed her wrist watch which she keeps in a small jewel box on her dressing table. A futher surch did not bring it to light and upon examination I discovered the loss of a watch chain of mine which is rather a keepsake having been handed down thru a few generations.

We did not have time to go over the house thoroughly on Thursday so decided that rather than make out a report of the loss and then find them later, that I would surch further before reporting the matter to you. I spoke to the Keeper about it on boat day and he wanted me to send in a letter at that time but I held off, hoping that a thorough search would find the missing articles.

Friday evening, Saturday, and Sunday were spent in going carefully thru the entire house and every drawer and closet was turned upside down, but to no avail.

To the best of my knowledge, Mrs. Logan has not worn her wrist watch for about two months. My watch chain, I can say positively that I have had it in my hands within the past six weeks. If only one of these articles were missing I would be tempted to say that it had mislaid, but where, in this case, both have disappeared at once, I can not bring myself to believe that they have been put anywhere in the house.

There has been unmistakable evidence of some one having been in our quaters during our absense during the past two or three months, for instance, one evening right after dusk, Mrs. Logan and our boy, went with me to put the hand lamp in the fog signal. The boy, wanting to play hid from us and we from him, in and around the buildings surrounding the fog signal for the better part of an hour. When we returned home we sent him on a little ways ahead of us and decided to enter the house by the front door so that we would be inside when he came in the back door. The storm door in front was locked so I climbed in the window to unlock it for my wife. When we came up to the window we noticed that a part of the lace curtain was hanging out and that the window had been shut down on it. Mrs. Logan was extremely displeased at this and asked if I had done it, but not having raised or lowered the window that day, I pleaded not guilty. Just inside of the window we have a plant on a pedestal, and when I opened the window and began to feel around for it in order to move it so that I could get in, I found it way to one side. After we had both entered the house we looked around to see if anything else had been moved, but found nothing else out of place.

On several other occations we have been out and upon our return have found doors open that we had left shut and ones that had been left shut, opened, also articles of furniture moved around a bit. I did not like to annoy either you or the Keeper with such petty happenings, so said nothing of them at the time.

During the past six or seven weeks there has been but one occation when we have both been out of the house at once, that was on the afternoon of January 22nd, between the hours of 4:45 and 6:30 P.M.

I am very sorry to have to report a matter of this nature as it seems to me to be a very serious thing to have happen in a place like this where there are so few people.

So far no one but the Keeper, Mr. Warnock, my wife and myself know of this matter and until orders have been received from you it will be kept secret.

Respectfully submitted,

P. McLaughlin.

2nd Assistant Keeper.

Respectfully forwarded

Geo Cuttingham.

R. M. Logan, Keeper-at-Large,
Farallon Light Station.

(Through the Keeper)

1. Referring to the investigation made on January 20th of your recent charges against 1st Assistant Keeper Zimmermann at your station, you are informed that it appears from that investigation that your charges were based almost wholly upon hearsay and that no evidence was offered tending to convict Assistant Keeper Zimmermann of any violation of the Regulations of this Service.

2. The investigation indicated rather clearly that you are prone to gossip and to take too active a part in attempting to influence the conduct of the Keeper and the Assistant Keepers at your station. Continued conduct of this kind cannot be tolerated in the Lighthouse Service, and you are directed in future to confine your criticism of Assistant Keepers at your station to the Keeper of the station, or to this Office in case of any serious matter which you believe should be reported. You should also make a special effort to promote harmony at your station and under no circumstances should you repeat tales or reports to the discredit of other Keepers at the station or of members of the Navy radio force on the Island.
