Dear Sir:

We find it quite necessary under existing conditions that we appeal to you for aid in the collection of an account in which one of your employees, as we understand it, is concerned.

The enclosed bill will tell its own story. Every effort in the ordinary collection of accounts has been made here and, as a last resort, we are seeking to enlist whatever authority you may have over this man so that he shall be compelled to pay us what is rightly ours and for what was sold him on a thirty days basis.

I hope that you can and will help us and if you cannot will you kindly let us know what method to take in the collection of this account.

We understand that at the present time this man is located in the Hog Island Lighthouse.

Thanking you in advance, we are

You wrote me about a bill which was sent into the office and I wish to state that it has been paid and my food bill at the same place will be also paid and as you said I will not trade there in the future. The reason I was unable to pay it before was on account of sickness in my family and I will see that in the future no more bills will come due.
